

Exhibitions

InfoComm 2011

Conference: June 11-17

Exhibits: June 15-17

Orange County Convention Center

Orlando, Florida

www.infocommshow.org/

Save the Date! InfoComm returns to Orlando in 2011 with more exhibit space, more products, more education and more opportunities to network with the best and the brightest in the industry! Make plans now to join us next June at the largest and most comprehensive pro-AV event in the world. More

Planning ahead? See future InfoComm Show dates.

Integrated Systems Europe

1-3 February 2011

Amsterdam, Netherlands

www.iseurope.org/

Integrated Systems Europe (ISE), incorporating InfoComm Europe, serves the entire European region, including the United Kingdom, Eastern Europe, the Middle East and Africa. ISE offers exciting opportunities to explore AV and electronics systems for the commercial and residential markets. More

13-15 April 2011

National Agricultural Exhibition Center

Beijing, China

www.infocomm-china.com/

InfoComm China 2011 is the seventh in the series of dedicated Pro-AV tradeshows organized by InfoCommAsia Pte Ltd for the China market. After four years in Shanghai as Integrated Systems China, the event moved to Beijing in 2007, and gained more support from the international AV community. Since then, the event has grown, drawing both international and emerging AV brands, as well as a broad spectrum of visitors from trade to end-user AV professionals. More

Integrate 2011 in association with InfoComm International

30 August-1 September 2011

Hordern Pavilion and Royal Hall of Industries

Moore Park, Sydney
www.integrate-expo.com/

Following the success of more than 50 seminars, workshops and special events at Integrate 2010, the 2011 show's education program is already being developed. Highlights will include the return of InfoComm's Super Tuesday's 'Future Trends' full-day conference. More

GovComm 2011
November 1-2, 2011
Walter E. Washington Convention Center
Washington, D.C.
www.infocomm.org/govcomm

InfoComm International is excited to announce GovComm 2011, a professional AV and information communications exposition and conference designed to serve Washington, D.C.-area technology managers, end-users and procurement officers in the government and military sectors. More

Copyright 2011 InfoComm International